BAD DREAMS .- They tell a story of a brakeman on a western train, who while dreaming at night, imagined he was on the platform of his car darting across the plains at a fearful rate. The danger signal was given, and swinging himself to one side he saw in the distance the red eye of a locomotive coming with neadlong speed toand him. He seized the brake and twisted it und with frantic vehemence—meanwhile his rs were assailed by the most frantic shrieks, which, in the confusion, he mistook for the coreams of the locomotive. But imagine his hor-ror when on awakening he found he had sezed his wife by the ears and had nearly twisted her head from her shoulders. The experience of this eccentric railroader was on a par with that of a well known gentleman, who, in his dreams, imagined he was in a fierce discussion with a political opponent, and to clinch the argument, pulled the nose of his antayonist. Unfortunately it was his wife's nose he pulled however, and that indignant female realizing the situation in an instant, went for him something after the is-hion of a catamount's assault upon a rival wildcat. The conflict was brief, but interesting. When the gentleman finally ended the struggle by rolling out on the floor the blood was trickling down his face from haif a dozen wounds, and there was about enough hair on his head to make an Indian scalp lock. tince then the gen-tieman has discouraged dreams and eschewed

A LEGISLATIVE PRAYER.-Rev. Philip Graef was recently invited to open the Illinois Legislature with prayer, which he did in the following language, taken from the regular report of the House proceedings for that day :

O Lord, we invoke Thy blessing this lovely morning. Thou who witherest upon the lips the Jades kiss, if there be any one of this body Who has a longing, covetous desire for the money bags, and has stained his soul, oh give him sublime courage to confess his sin, and not, like Judes, go out and hang himself. [Laughter.] Lord, keep this body pure and hourst, but if there be one dishonest member give him courage to confess his sin. Amen. | Uproarious laughter and pious | jaculations of amen. |
